Within the IN MOBILITY project, the partners involved continue their collaboration to develop urban mobility policies that are fairer, more accessible and more sustainable.

At the end of January, the project partners met in Liepāja, Latvia, for a Peer Review meeting focused on one of the core dimensions of mobility poverty: transport availability. The discussions addressed concrete challenges related to access to transport and offered an opportunity to exchange experiences and reflect on how local and regional policies can respond more effectively to the mobility needs of vulnerable groups. ## 2nd Peer review focused on transport affordability

The next stage of the project will take place in Alba Iulia, on 6-7 May 2026, during a new study visit and #2 Peer Review meeting. This session will focus on transport affordability, specifically addressing two key sub-topics: “How to target specific groups” and “Pricing/Cost of mobility”. The programme will showcase local examples relevant to the project’s objectives, including electric mobility, traffic management and local mobility initiatives, providing a useful context for further discussion on practical ways to make urban transport more accessible and inclusive.
